SKIN CANCER.
Several years ago I was called to see a colored woman who had a malignant form of cancer on her foot The cancer grew worse under the prescribed treatment and the toes and one side of the foot were at length eaten entirely away. The patient could not have survived much longer but I commenced the use of Swift's Specific and it cured her sound and well That was three years ago and there has been no return of the disease I regard Swift's Specific a most excellent medicine for blood diseases, and its only use is to drive out the poison

AN UNDERTAKER'S INDECORUM

The Annoyance to Which a Brainless Fellow Submitted Minister Lincoln

LONDON March 16—[Special Telegram.]—It is an old custom in England when a family is bereaved to send out memorial cards with mourning to intimate friends but Minister Lincoln is not an Englishman and did not observe this custom after the death of his son So H L Mills, undertaker for young Lincoln decided to do it for him While at Mr Lincoln's house attending to the details of the funeral he got access to the visiting cards of callers there with messages of sympathy sent during the son's illness, which include nearly all the Americans in London On Thursday these Americans were astonished to receive a brilliant blue card with a gilt band, announcing the death of Abraham Lincoln also a conspicuous advertisement of Mills's undertaker's shop All was made to appear as if sent by Lincoln This was followed by an equally wide distribution of proof sheets of an extract from the Undertakers' Weekly Journal notifying Americans in London that Mills by reason of services as undertaker to James Russell Lowell when his wife died and to Lincoln was the proper man for them to employ Minister Lincoln is deeply distressed at Mills's conduct Americans here are so indignant at his effrontery that so far as future custom is concerned Mills will not receive a single order from them.

THE LONDON "TIMES"

Elevation of Moberly Bell, a Correspondent, to Be General Manager

LONDON, March 16.—[Special Telegram.]—Moberly Bell has been appointed general manager of the London Times as successor of the late Mr MacDonald Bell's dispatches contributed in a powerful manner to bring about the state of affairs which led to the occupation of Egypt by Great Britain in 1882 and since then he has done his utmost through his correspondence to influence the British government to administer the government in a manner more conducive to the pecuniary interests of greedy bondholders than to those of either the English or Egyptian nation as a whole Egyptian bonds previous to British occupation were 50 per cent below par whereas now they are above par As Bell has been largely instrumental in bringing this state of affairs about, he doubtless has had some claim on the bondholders—that is on Messrs Rothschild—and it is to this that his appointment as general manager of the Times must be attributed It is an extraordinary nomination for Bell has no administrative knowledge no social rank or acquaintance and no knowledge of European or English politics.

LORD CHURCHILL'S PROTEST

He Explains His Objections to the Parnell Commission Bill

LONDON March 16.—Lord Randolph Churchill publishing his original protest against the Parnell commission bill says he fails to see how this and his recent speech can be construed as disloyal to the unionist party It seems to him the charge of disloyalty might be more forcibly urged against those who in spite of every warning, forced upon parliament a measure which by its history and results obviously dealt a heavy blow at the cause and party of the union He explains that when he sent his protest the commission bill was in embryo and the government contemplated at and in its [illegible] withdrawing it If it led to a protracted debate The chief objections urged by Lord Randolph in his protest were in the first place the offer of the commission to a large extent recognized the wisdom of the accused in avoiding a trial by jury in the second place it was unprecedented and in the third place unwise or illegal to engage judges in a political conflict which was certain to result in a loss of respect.

A CARNIVAL OF CRIME

Three Tragedies Follow the Mi Careme Festival in the French Metropolis

PARIS March 16—Mi careme has brought its usual harvest of crime Marie Lavelle a laundress went to the carnival ball and did not return until 4 in the morning Her husband attacked her with a revolver, firing three shots one of which took effect in the breast of an innocent woman named Pickard

A government employe after indulging in a mi careme dinner gave his mistress Marie Bebut, a beverage containing arsenic He then fired twice at the woman, went into the kitchen swallowed poison himself and blew the top of his head off with the remaining shot in his revolver

A third tragedy was that in which Mayer and wife were actors As the couple were returning from the ball Mme Mayer assaulted her husband and poured hot burning oil over him The poor man all over fire rushed upstairs to the apartment of a police inspector The wife followed him revolver in hand and succeeded in lodging six bullets in his back Returning to her rooms she fired five bullets into her own breast.

QUEEN VICTORIA

England's Ruler Growing Old Rapidly and Lame From Rheumatism

LONDON March 16—[Special Telegram.]—All who have seen Queen Victoria upon the few occasions this year on which she has appeared in public agree that she is aging rapidly She has lost her uprightness of carriage which despite her shortness and rotundity once imparted real dignity to her appearance and the plumpness of her cheeks has degenerated into pudginess She cannot walk at all without the aid of a stout stick, owing to rheumatism which has become chronic in her left hip and probably from the same cause she is much bent It is reported that when the news was brought of Sir Howard Elphinstone's death the queen was much overcome and exclaimed "I shall soon be alone save for my children"

MONTANA ELECTION CONTEST CASE

Colonel Sanders Has Already Selected His Seat—Wanamaker Making Inquiries About Dead Letters—Congress and Forecast

WASHINGTON March 16—[OREGONIAN Office corner Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue.]—The committee on rivers and harbors at the last meeting took up the proposed boat railway scheme on the Columbia river at The Dalles The elaborate plans and scientific specifications just received from the government printing office together with the facts relating to the different recommendations for overcoming the obstructions of the navigation of the Columbia were presented to the committee and explained at length by Representative Hermann A lively debate ensued It resulted however in the passage of Mr Hermann's resolution for the appointment of a committee to wait upon the war department and consult with engineers as to the plans of the government for the relief of the growing commerce of the upper Columbia The chairman appointed as a committee Hermann Catchings of Mississippi Niedringhaus, Townsend and Blanchard

Three plans are discussed by the board of engineers First a canal and locks Secondly, a single track portage railway Thirdly a boat railway The latter scheme is believed to be the best if it could be secured but the method of the house in dealing with propositions of this kind make it indeed doubtful With other appropriations asked for the Columbia the house committee will hesitate a long time before appropriating the amount called for in the bill. Both senators are working for the measure and their influence will carry it through the upper house. Mr Hermann wants a boat railway in preference to all other propositions but is met with opposition on all sides in the house and in his committee It may be possible to compromise on a portage railway if the people of Oregon would prefer that now rather than take the chances of delay which the improvement of the dalles by other methods may cause Members of the rivers and harbors committee have intimated that they would support the portage railway scheme on account of the small appropriation necessary

There is little doubt of Senator Dolph's bills for the improvement of the mouth of the Columbia and of the Cascades receiving favorable action.

There is no definite time fixed for considering the Montana election case The majority report of the committee will probably be made to the senate to-morrow As a privileged report it can be called up at any time but as there is now a prospect that the Blair nuisance may be removed by Thursday it is probable that Montana will wait and perhaps go over another week. The republicans will see it settled beyond question There will be no disposition on the part of the republican senators to accept anything other than the report of their committee. The democrats will do the same Besides those republicans who have looked into the matter believe that Sanders and Power have the best of the case. Colonel Sanders is waiting the outcome but is so confident of success that he has selected a seat on the outer row beside Senator Stewart on the republican side of the chamber Mr Power is expected to return in time to hear the decision and be sworn in

The inspector of the postoffice department now on his way to the coast to investigate the routes of Washington mail service is clothed with power to make such changes as he in his judgment deems best The new states may be obliged to wait a year before getting everything they need but Representatives Wilson and Carter being on the postoffices and post roads committee will secure some legislation beneficial to the West and especially the neglected new states. If the people of Washington could be satisfied to accept part of what they are asking of congress and not press their congressmen for everything at once, there would be a possible show of getting recognition But with four cities demanding public buildings, every river and harbor asking appropriations and various others interests being pressed by memorials and by citizens of towns and cities interested the senators and representatives are in a quandary It is possible that a compromise may be reached so that strength can be concentrated upon the most pressing measures and others wait another session

CONGRESSIONAL FORECAST

What Will Be Done in Congress During the Week to Come.

WASHINGTON March 16—An effort will be made in the senate to-morrow by Plumb in accordance with notice given last Wednesday to displace the educational bill with his land grant forfeiture bill If his motion is successful the belief is that the educational bill will not again be heard of this session of congress. If the bill be further discussed it will not occupy all the time of the senate until a vote is reached Thursday But one or two more speeches are to be made on the measure besides the summing up by Blair

The urgent deficiency bill will be called up to-morrow and early in the week the majority reports upon the case of the Montana senators will also be submitted but with this understanding that action be postponed until the Blair bill is out of the way

On Tuesday the finance committee will report the McKinley administration customs bill to the senate and urge its consideration thereof at the earliest practicable date To secure this the committee will antagonize the Pacific railroad funding bill Sherman's trust bill Hale's bill for the enlargement of the navy and dependent pension bill all of which will be pushed for the first place as soon as the way is cleared by the execution of the present order on the Blair bill

To-morrow being the third Monday in the month, the committees calling up measures to act on under suspension of the rules in the house will have the right of way.

The pension appropriation bill is ready for action and undoubtedly will raise a spirited discussion upon general pension legislation

The direct tax bill is in a position where it can be called up any day and the members of the ways and means committee express confidence in being able to report the tariff bill before the close of the week

INTERSTATE COMMERCE

Text of the Decision of the Commission Against the Trunk Lines

WASHINGTON March 16—The interstate commission yesterday decided the cases against the trunk lines by J B Thurber and others of New York city known as car load cases, in favor of the complainants Complaint was made of too great differences in the rate charges on car load and less than car load quantities Following are extracts from the decision Carriers are not at liberty to classify property as the basis of transportation rates and impose charges for its carriage with exclusive regard to their own interests but must respect the interests of those who may have occasion to employ their services, and conform their charges to the rules of relative equality and justice which the act prescribes. The cost of service is an important element in fixing transportation charges and is entitled to fair consideration but is not alone controlling, and the value of the service to the property carried is an essential factor to be recognized in connection with other considerations Public interests are not to be subordinated to those of carriers and require a proper regard for the value of service in the apportionment of all charges on traffic The difference in rates upon car loads and less than car loads of the same line that lie between the same points of carriage are so wide as to be destructive to competition between large and small dealers especially upon articles of general and necessary use and which under the existing conditions of trade furnish a large volume of business to carriers, is unjust and violates the provisions and principles of the act The difference in the rate for a solid carload of one kind of freight from one consignor to one consignee and a carload quantity from the same point of shipment to the same destination consisting of like freight or like character from more than one consignor to one consignee or from one consignor to more than one consignee is not justified by the difference in the cost of handling Under official qualification articles known in trade as grocery articles are so classified as to discriminate unjustly in rates between car loads and less than car loads upon many articles and a revision of the classification and rates to correct the unjust differences and give their respective modes of shipment more relatively reasonable rates is necessary and is ordered.

Commissioners Schoonmaker and Bragg will hold a public session at New York city March 18 and 19 for the purpose of obtaining evidence in regard to rates on grain transported to the seaboard under the bill of the senate.

UNDELIVERED LETTERS.

Wanamaker Wants to Know Why Folks Don't Get Their Mail

WASHINGTON D C March 16—[Special Telegram.]—The postmaster general recently began an investigation of the causes of so many unclaimed letters which come to the dead letter office The figures are growing and he has found that from 401 free delivery postoffices there were sent to the dead letter office last year 2 300 000 letters. This is about half of the unclaimed mail out of the 60 000 postoffices of the country An examination shows that in the new states and cities where the growth has been rapid the proportion of letters is greatest The postmaster general says that this showing is not to the credit of the free delivery office and something must be done to stop it He wrote to the postmasters in many cities including the principal places in Minnesota the Dakotas Montana and Washington asking for the cause of so many undelivered letters and the remedy for it The replies are beginning to come in The far west cities have not responded yet. Postmaster Curtis of Helena, Mont thinks the cause in his city is that remittances are so frequently made without leaving a change of address at the postoffice, and that so many letters are directed to persons who never lived in the limits of the free delivery He believes that incompetent clerks are responsible for many of the letters not being delivered and as the principal remedy he would pay larger salaries, thereby securing men who are better qualified for the work

CRUELTY TO SEAMEN.

Another Brutal Mate Likely to Get Punished for His Crimes

NEW YORK, March 16.—George W Johns, mate of the British ship Constance was arrested to-day at the instance of Lad Booker English consul general and taken before United States Commissioner Speed charged with cruel and inhuman treatment towards seamen Thomas Walmsley, one of the complaining sailors told a story on which the second mate was sent to jail without bail pending examination The Constance sailed from Hong Kong on the 18th of September Ten days later, when the vessel was at Manila one of the Philippine islands Johns sent him aloft to oil the foremast. While doing this he accidentally spilled some oil on the forward house For this he was attacked with a belaying pin by Johns, who struck him on the back and face, breaking his nose Afterwards second mate Lee attacked him, and two other sailors named Burton and Knight The latter defended himself with a knife, whereupon Johns drew a revolver and fired twice, wounding Knight in the right cheek and over the eye Second mate Lee during the melee struck Thomas Goodman another seaman on the arm with an axe German sprang overboard and a messmate named Griffin followed his example At this Johns ordered a boat to be lowered and the men in the water were brought back to the ship Walmsley asserts that he himself afterward received a bullet wound in the back from Johns's pistol Medical and surgical aid were denied to both Walmsley and Knight but the latter was sent after some hours, to the hospital at Manila Walmsley was put to work The case will be given a full hearing in a few days.

MURDERS HIS MISTRESS

A Human Fiend Hacks a Woman to Pieces and Escapes

WASHINGTON March 16.—One of the most atrocious murders that ever occurred in Washington was perpetrated to-night. Mary Hardy for several years lived with Alfred Riggs and was regarded as his wife Riggs is a tough character While the woman was alone to-night Riggs was seen to enter the house and make his way to her room Precisely what followed probably will never be known Screams of "murder" "police" soon came from the room and attracted the attention of the neighbors. A tenant on the lower floor, Warren Johnson by name rushed up stairs and throwing his weight against the door burst it open. As he entered a terrible sight met his gaze Riggs held the woman by the throat on the floor while with his disengaged hand he was jabbing a knife into every portion of her body with the frenzy of a madman. Johnson rushed at the assassin and hurled him into a corner, from which he soon arose and made for the peacemaker, apparently with the intention of killing him

He slashed and stabbed him several times, and would no doubt have killed him but for the approach of others on the stairway which brought him to his senses. He jumped from the window and made his escape The woman was cut in as many as twenty two places and it is impossible for her to live. Johnson received four very bad cuts.

FRAUDULENT TROTTING RACE.

A Dishonest Owner Tells How He Fixed His Horse Not to Win

BUFFALO March 16.—During a hearing in a case against the National Trotting Association yesterday, growing out of the noted Nelson-Alcryon race an interesting affidavit was submitted, being that of G W Archer president of the Rochester Driving Park, and one of the judges of the race. He affirmed in substance that a couple of months after he met Frank Noble who according to Archer's understanding had control of Alcryon during '89 that Noble told him that he had had the horse shod a few days before the race so that no driver would drive him to win Noble further stated to Archer that before the race began he had agreed to let Nelson win the race and had Nelson's check for $5000 before the race started that he (Noble) won second money and got $7600 out of the race. The deponent asked him "Don't you think you are taking desperate chances?" And Noble said "What could you have done about it if you had discovered any fraud at the time?" Deponent replied if they had known of fraud at the time the judges would have declared the pools and race off

JAY GOULD KIDNAPPED.

Three New York Papers Vie With Each Other in Publishing the Details

NEW YORK March 16—[Special Telegram.]—Intense rivalry between local papers has resulted in marked sensationalism During the week past flaring placards at the elevated railway stations and other conspicuous places announced the story of Jay Gould kidnapped in 1873 and held for ransom would be published in the World this morning The Evening World daily contained catchy articles that whetted the appetite of the public. Friday the World people surreptitiously bought a quarter page in the Evening Sun in which they printed a puffy advertisement of the story to be published in the Sunday World. The Sun people in revenge printed last evening a story of Gould's kidnapped anticipating the World twelve hours The Press also published a like story to-day The whole matter is severely condemned by honest people There is much talk of the necessity for a press censor The stories are wholly imaginary, rankly unjust, and conduce to stimulate crime.

PAPPENHEIMER GETS A BRIDE

Another Rich Philadelphia Girl Buys a Real Live Count

NEW YORK March 16.—The North German Lloyd steamship Aller, which arrived to-day from Bremen brought the Marf and Herr Maximillian S T Pappenheimer (Anglicised the Count Pappenheimer of Munich) who will marry Miss Mary Wheeler, of Philadelphia. Miss Wheeler came over on the City of Paris a few days ago, with her mother The count was accompanied by his brother who is a lieutenant in the Royal Guards at Potsdam

Whitelaw Reid and the "Tribune."

NEW YORK March 16—[Special Telegram.]—In the absence of Whitelaw Reid to Paris D O Mills attends the meetings of the Tribune board regularly He has become quite an expert in the newspaper business It is rumored that when Reid returns he will resign the post of minister to France and resume his editorial duties on the Tribune, but this is quite doubtful as Mrs. Reid enjoys her social duties in Paris sufficiently well to endure all the hardships of the place

Mad Dog Bites Several Persons

NEW YORK March 16—A mad dog ran through the streets to-day and bit two boys and a man The dog was finally killed by a policeman The injured persons had their wounds cauterized at the hospitals. The dog had been in the custody of boys who plagued it. It ran about four miles and is thought to have bitten a number of persons but cases of only three victims were reported

Bishop Shanley Asks Aid for the Starving Chippewas.

THE WHITE MEN STOLE THEIR LAND

Now They Are Driven Back Among Forests, Swamps and Rocks.

STARVATION THINNING THEM OUT

Trying in Vain to Make a Living With Miserably Insufficient Help From the Government—Great Suffering

PHILADELPHIA, March 16—Bishop Shanley of North Dakota in the cathedral to-day told a pathetic story of the privations and suffering of the Chippewa Indians occupying the reservation in the extreme northern part of his diocese His object was to secure assistance for their relief He described vividly the condition of these Indians as witnessed by himself during the recent cold weather when the thermometer marked 40 below zero. He charges the government with having stolen 11 000 000 acres of the land this tribe possessed when Dakota territory was divided between the Sioux and Chippewas and not one cent paid for it The Indians he said were sent to the northern border of the state where two townships are organized with 5000 acres of land filled with bad forests lakes and swamps and rocks. There were just 1930 Indians who were trying to make a living where 1000 white men could scarcely raise enough to keep them alive He says their huts are miserably insufficient and as many as six families are crowded into some of them They never have been supplied with proper agricultural implements but, with the plows sent them by the Catholic Indian bureau last spring they managed to break 800 acres of soil but there was no rain and to-day they are absolutely destitute with no grain no food and no clothing The United States he says appropriates $5000 for these Indians, about $250 each This is spent for flour—and fat pork, distributed among them. The pork is sickening During the eighteen months previous to the 1st of January out of 1400 Indians 100 died, During January twenty seven died and these deaths are almost invariably the result of starvation. The bishop related many instances of destitution, and said he would not have believed the story had he not witnessed the scenes himself.

VICKSBURG Miss, March 16—This evening the crevasse at Raleigh was 1000 feet or more wide and the ends were caving rapidly The levee is nearly fifteen feet high and the immense volume of water delivered may be estimated by the fact that in the twenty four hours ending this evening the river has fallen three inches at Vicksburg and four inches at Lake Providence, though rising steadily prior to the crevasse The water from the crevasse will overflow fully one-fourth of East Carroll and a greater part of Tensas and Madison parishes. Transcontinental Meeting—Northwest Base-ball League—Suicide of a Seattle Merchant—Death of Hon Thomas H. Laine

TACOMA W T March 15 – [Special Telegram]—One of the most scientific and hardest fought battles that ever took place in the prize ring was the contest to a finish near Puyallup Sunday morning The contestants were introduced as James Ryan and Barney Curtis welterweights but posted ring siders soon found out that the former was Jimmy Smith of Denver, Col The men had been in training for five weeks and had been matched very quietly by two prominent sporting patrons from this city and Spokane Falls for a finish fight for a large amount a side and betting on the result commenced a week after the men went into active training. A quiet tip was given out Saturday afternoon but many local sports got left There was a deputy sheriff in the party but assurances were given that there would be no interference The regular 24-foot ring was pitched in a barn about midnight with a Northern Pacific railroad official acting as referee.

In the first round Ryan shot out his right and smashed Curtis on the jaw, following it up with a sledge hammer visitation on the jaw that sent Curtis to the floor like a log Everybody thought it a knockout when at the call of the eighth second, Curtis jumped to his feet and went at the Colorado boy hammer and tongs Rattling exchanges followed, and just as time was called Curtis landed on his man's jaw and floored him Ryan got up quickly and was soon in his seat

For three rounds the men did little "Ryan" adopted generaling tactics and Curtis seemed content to watch him

At the very outset of round five Ryan commenced rushing tactics by order of his seconds He hurricaned Curtis about the ring smashed him several telling ones about the ribs and face and finally sent him to the floor on his back with a smashing righthander that visited his jugular heartily Curtis lay like a dead man and let ten seconds pass before he was on his feet with a jump Rattling exchanges ensued and down went Curtis again only to bob up serenely an instant later to be sent a third time to the floor

Round six was uneventful both pugilists seeming to be desirous of regaining lost wind This was the case with the succeeding two rounds.

In the ninth round the Colorado boy e[illegible] with his left for the jugular of Curtis. He met with a counter and a smash on the nose that nearly drew blood Hot in fighting ensued "Ryan found himself on the ropes when time was called. Both were groggy and glad to take a seat

Round ten was characterized by rushing tactics on the part of Curtis He kept this up throughout rounds eleven and twelve and the hard work he had to do probably cost him the fight He could not visit "Ryan to save him

When round thirteen was called for Curtis came up looking tired It was Ryan's turn to rush, and he did it with a will Two or three times it looked as if Curtis was done for He stood punishment manfully and when sent to the floor by a smasher on the jaw he got up nimbly and was ready for more.

In the two succeeding rounds Ryan rushed his man He pounded him all over the ring and sent him over the ropes two or three times He went to his corner groggy and completely fagged out.

Round sixteen ended the fight Ryan fresh and smiling came up while Curtis, nervous and acting like a dazed man made his way to the center Again Ryan adopted hurricane fighting Curtis tried hard to hold his own but was done for He lead out two or three times viciously, but failed to land meantime getting a hitting that would have put many men to sleep. When about half the round had passed Ryan suddenly shot out his right and swung a smasher on Curtis's neck It sent him to the ropes closely followed by Ryan, who rained blow after blow on him. Finally with a desperate rally Curtis got out in the ring threw all his power into a right hander directed at "Ryan's" jugular, but failed Like lightning Ryan landed on his mouth knocking him again to the ropes As Curtis drew up he got a smashing upper cut under the chin that put him to sleep and ended the mill. It is likely the men will come together again as Curtis maintains he can whip him

A Minister's Story.

A minister and his little boy cured of obstinate skin diseases by the Cuticura Remedies Praises them everywhere—in the pulpit, home, and in the street

Cured by Cuticura

For about thirteen years I have been troubled with eczema or some other cutaneous disease which all remedies failed to cure Hearing of the CUTICURA REMEDIES I resolved to give them a trial I purchased one box of CUTICURA RESOLVENT, one box of CUTICURA and one cake of CUTICURA SOAP I followed the directions carefully and it affords me much pleasure to say that before using two boxes of the CUTICURA four cakes of CUTICURA SOAP and one bottle of CUTICURA RESOLVENT I was entirely cured

In addition to my own case my baby boy then about [illegible] months old was suffering with what I supposed to be the same disease as mine to such an extent that his head was coated over with a solid scab from which there was a constant flow of pus which was sickening to look upon besides two large tumor like kernels on the back of his head Thanks to you and your wonderful CUTICURA REMEDIES his scalp is perfectly well and the kernels have been scattered so that there is only one little place by his left ear and that is healing nicely Instead of a coating of scabs he has a fine coat of hair, much better than that which was destroyed by the disease I would that the whole world of sufferers from skin and blood diseases knew the value of your CUTICURA REMEDIES as I do

The CUTICURA RESOLVENT and CUTICURA SOAP are each worth ten times the price at which they are sold. I have never used any other toilet soap in my house since I bought the first cake of your CUTICURA SOAP I would be inhuman as well as ungrateful should I fail to speak well of and recommend your CUTICURA REMEDIES to every sufferer I have spoken of it and shall continue to speak of it from the pulpit, in the homes, and in the streets Praying that you may live long and do others the same amount of good you have done me and my child, I remain, yours gratefully,

NORTHWEST CORNER SECOND AND MORRISON.

A HOTEL RUN BY ELECTRICITY.

What is known as an electrical hotel has been running at Samaden Switzerland. The building is lighted by electricity generated by a water wheel propelled by a cataract. All the rooms are supplied with electric signals, and the cooking ranges contain resistance coils brought to a red heat by a powerful current. Water may be heated and eggs cooked on the dining table by means of a current of electricity

The running of a hotel by electricity and its application in a thousand other ways is not equal to the scientific manner in which Drs Darrin employ the subtle fluid in the restoration of health to the afflicted as the following multiplying results show. Drs. Darrin appear to know the uses of electricity to the human system quite as well as Edison does to the application of machinery

Mr. Wm. M. Calwell of the Columbia River Manufacturing Co. Cured of Sciatic Rheumatism

Ed OREGONIAN—Dear Sir Having heard of Dr Darrin through my brother George L. Prepare for Spring

Now is the time to attend to your personal condition, in preparation for the change to spring season. If you have not "wintered well," if you are tired out from overwork, if your blood has become impure from close confinement in badly ventilated offices or shops, you should take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. It will purify and vitalize your blood, create a good appetite, and give your whole system tone and strength.

"I have taken three bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla for kidney disease, which has troubled me for some time, and I feel ever so much better. I would not be without it. I never took any medicine before that did me so much good. I have recommended Hood's Sarsaparilla to a great many people." MRS. NELLIE HOWE, Channel street, Stockton, Cal.

"For five years I was sick every spring, but last year I began in February to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. I used five bottles and have not seen a sick day since." G. W. SLOAN, Milton, Mass.

"Our little girl, nineteen months old, was troubled with scrofulous sores. Her eyes were in a terrible condition and her nose all covered with scab. Physicians said they could not cure her. We commenced giving her Hood's Sarsaparilla, and now, after using two bottles in the past three months, her face and eyes are clear of the sores, and her appetite has returned. We feel very thankful for finding so valuable a medicine as Hood's Sarsaparilla to save our child." J. A. GRAY, 458 Minor Avenue, Stockton, Cal.

Yamhill county teachers' institute will be held the last week in June

The McMinnville Presbyterian society will build a new church this year

The coroner's juries witnesses, sheriff and stenographer's fees in the Scott murder case near Wheatland have already cost Yamhill county $301 60

Salem has already made back the $20,000 she gave for the establishment of the woolen mill, two or three times over—and she will make it back every year, says the Statesman.

The Roseburg woolen mills will be rebuilt if outside capital can be enlisted or if the people of the town will take sufficient stock in the enterprise It is a good location and there are many wool growers in the Umpqua hills

R. J Lancefield of Amity, disputes the assertion made by many that this has been the most severe winter ever known in that section He says forty years ago was a worse one and it snowed, rained or hailed twenty seven days in the month of March

The Heppner Gazette this week contains as a supplement a well written description of the city and its surroundings It speaks well for Heppner that it has such a well edited newspaper and well for the paper that it has cast its lines in such a prosperous community

Young Cunningham, recently sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment in the Washington penitentiary for killing a Chinaman at Port Townsend was a school boy at Albany only a few years ago He was a noted little bully always cuffing little boys teasing girls and exhibiting mean traits of character in a dozen ways What's bred in the bone will come out in the flesh

WASHINGTONIANA.

Sprague will have a street railway system in complete operation within the next nine months

It is reported that several hundred dead cattle are frozen in in Jamison lake in the Grand Coulee and that they stand in the ice looking as natural as life

The Sprague Herald reports that the heavy snowfall has left the bunchgrass in fine condition green and from six to ten inches in length Stock will soon pick up again

Eastern Washington horsemen will have a spring roundup the starting point being Washtucna Lake where those who are interested will meet April 10 Those who have horses on the range should start with the party Concerted action may find many an animal that would otherwise be lost

"A washout on the south side of the Columbia hills, southeast of Goldendale on Wednesday, exposed a tusk of a mammoth It was five feet in diameter at the large end and seven feet long " This item which is going the rounds of the press says the Goldendale Sentinel, should read five inches It would be a queer looking tusk five feet in diameter and seven feet long

LOCAL NEWS IN A NUTSHELL.

He Put the Robber to Flight at the Muzzle of a Winchester.

A Worthless Check Puts Two Men Behind the Bars—Organization of a Baseball League—Return of the German Song Birds.

HANS "WENT HIM ONE BETTER."—Hans Hansen formerly worked in Weidler's sawmill, but preferring a life of rural felicity, he removed with his family to a ranch near Brower & Thompson's sawmill in the southeast part of this county. Here he imagined he could live under his own vine and figtree, and no one would molest him or make him afraid. He was consequently somewhat astonished a few evenings since when in the dusk a stranger with a flour sack drawn over his head and a big revolver in his hand stepped into his house. Hansen at first thought it was one of his neighbors trying to frighten him, but when the fellow leveled the revolver and demanded his money he began to think it was no joke. "Money?" says Hansen, "of course, I'll get it at once," and he stepped into his bedroom and, grabbing his Winchester rifle, poked the muzzle through the door, upon which the would-be robber fled, leaving some very long tracks in the snow. He probably did not know that the rifle was empty and that there was not a cartridge in the house. Hansen had just been paid for a horse, which may have had something to do with the visit.

COFFERDAM LAUNCHED.—The cofferdam to be placed about the bows of the Clan Macpherson was successfully launched from E-street wharf yesterday afternoon. It is a huge box of stout planks with a notch in one end the size and shape of the bow of the Clan Macpherson, aft the yawning gap made by the sharp prow of the Oregon. The ship was moved up above E street and stout beams placed under the cofferdam for ways. These being well greased, other beams were placed upon them and the blocks taken from under the dam, which scooted off the end of the wharf and fell into the river with a mighty splash. It will be placed under the bow of the ship today, and then she will be turned bow down stream for greater convenience in handling material and repairing the break, and also to lessen the danger of anything knocking away the cofferdam, as, if this should happen the ship would sink, as the plates are to be removed clear down to the keel.

HOSPITAL ENDOWMENTS.—Bishop Morris received while in the East, gifts from two generous friends of $3000 each for the Good Samaritan Hospital, which will be a most important help in its work. The sum of $6000 is to be appropriated as follows: $1500 for the recent improvements to the buildings, $1500 to complete the Philadelphia bed, and $3000 for the endowment of the strangers' bed. We are only at liberty to say that these generous gifts came from former friends of the bishop; $3000 from Philadelphia, and $3000 from Washington city. The contributions at Christmas and Easter will doubtless make up the $650 required to complete the endowment of the child's cot, so that there will be added this year to the resources of the hospital the support of three more free beds.

TO REMEMBER ST. PATRICK'S DAY.—For the past thirty-one years the Portland Hibernian Benevolent Society have celebrated St. Patrick's Day by giving a grand ball on the evening of each recurring 17th of March. This year will prove no exception to the rule, and to-night at Turner Hall the thirty-first anniversary ball will be given under the auspices of this old and much esteemed organization. Ample preparations have been completed by the several committees, and nothing has been omitted to insure the success of the ball. That it will prove a most enjoyable affair, and a financial success, is a foregone conclusion.

A CLOSE CALL.—Yesterday afternoon as the 2 o'clock motor car was coming in from Fulton Park, it jumped the track just this side of the curve, at the head of Front street. Luckily no one was seriously injured. One lady was thrown from the car and fell on her face, which was bruised by striking on the side of the car as she fell. A young man had his wrist sprained, and several others were badly shaken up and frightened. The conductor in charge of that car should be careful in passing through the cuts on his route, as there is danger of caving banks or other obstructions.

AT A MEETING of the North Pacific Builders Supply Company, held at the rooms of Watson, Hume & Watson, for the purpose of organization, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: C. W. Conlier, president, W. T. Hume, secretary, H. Varwig, jr., treasurer. The capital stock of the company is $50,000, divided into shares of $100 each. The factory, which will be in operation as soon as the necessary machinery arrives and building is completed, will be located at Oregon City, with its principal office here under the managements of C. B. Richards.

WILL GIVE A GRAND BALL.—The committee of arrangements appointed at the last meeting of Council No. 1, Benevolent Order Veteran Volunteer Firemen, met on Saturday evening and decided to give a ball on Thursday evening, May 8, at Grand Army hall, Taylor and First streets. The chair appointed the following committees. Music A. B. Stuart, W. H. D. Joyce, James Hopkins and J. Yost; printing, M. M. Lucas, W. A. Sewal, A. B. Stuart and L. Dielschneider, hall, N. Goigeuren, John T. Williams and John Cook, decorations, Martin Burke, S. Buchtel and Phil Kerrigan.

THE CHECK WAS N. G.—James Gallagher and S. Hibbard were arrested yesterday afternoon on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. It appears that they passed a worthless check for $61 42 to John Peltier at a discount and in this they came to grief. The check was on the Ainsworth National bank made payable to James Gallagher and bore the signature of S. E. Murphy. As soon as Peltier learned that the check was worthless, he reported the matter to the police, who had no trouble in finding the two swindlers. He had given the men $50.

HAS RESUMED WORK.—Judge Hurley stated to a reporter yesterday that the United Brethren college at Corvallis, has been able to resume work since the decision of Judge Bean, in favor of the conservative element of the church there. The suit is yet pending, though a decision has been rendered on a hearing for a preliminary injunction. The decision, while not final, is thought virtually to settle the disputed possession of the college property. A good many United Brethren people will be glad to hear that the college has again gone to work.

BASEBALL LEAGUE.—G. A. Vanderbeck returned yesterday from Tacoma, where he has been attending the North Pacific baseball conference, in which several Portland men are interested. That a four club professional league will be formed is now a certainty, and Portland, Spokane, Tacoma and Seattle will be the clubs who will start the movement. Mr. Vanderbeck and "Senator" Morgan will hustle the Portland club through, backed by local capitalists who have faith in a well managed league and a good Portland club.

THE HUNT PROPOSITION.—Increasing assurance is being received by the various sub committees of the Board of Trade, who are soliciting subscriptions for the Hunt proposition. The amount now subscribed and pledged is about $1,300,000. The Merchants' Protective Union has taken the matter up, and its meeting to-morrow morning promises to show that the wholesale dealers will fully appreciate the advantages to trade which the road will bring to them.

THE SONGSTERS HAVE RETURNED.—Nearly every day some one calls on Mr. Frank Dekum or Mr. Pfluger to tell them about some of the imported song birds having returned from their winter quarters. Song thrushes, black starlings and chaffinches have been seen in many places around the city, and the skylarks have been heard singing away up among the clouds. The linnets, goldfinches, etc., have not yet returned but are expected soon.

SUIT TO BE FILED.—A suit will be filed to-day in the state circuit court to foreclose a mechanic's lien on the cable road. The complainants are the sub-contractors H. S. Stackford and G. W. Godfrey, and the action is against the Joshua Hendy Machinery Works of San Francisco, with the cable company here as co defendants. The amount involved is some $1600.

FILLED WITH SAND.—The supply pipes of the Skidmore fountain, like all other water pipes in the lower part of the city, are pretty well filled with sand. In consequence the fountain has not exhibited its usual playfulness of late. The street near the fountain is torn up and the pipes will be cleared as far as possible of the obstruction.

"A NIGHT OFF."—Augustin Daly's greatest comedy by Mr. Daly's only authorized company will appear at the New Park theater to-night. There will be no increase in prices. This, with the standing of the company, will no doubt pack the New Park not only to-night, but the entire week.

A BIG SHIPMENT OF DRUMS.—The Wiley B. Allen music store received on the clipper Belle of Bath, from New York, over 300 drums and 50 double basses and cellos.

THE SPECIAL MEETING of Woman's Union, corner Fourteenth and F, to be held Monday, February 17, has been postponed until further notice.

THE STEAMER ALLIANCE will sail for Gray's Harbor Tuesday at noon. Freight received until hour of sailing.

DRESS FABRICS

Wool Dresses for cool days and excursions are among the necessities of well equiped wardrobes. The most popular are the CASHMERES and HENRIETTA CLOTH in ALL-WOOL AND SILK WARP.

The SILK WARP HENRIETTAS are best known for their fine texture and beauty and finish of the fabric, and the tints and tones of all shades, blending of the most delicious softness and bloomy effects, at once artistic and becoming, are among the season's selections of this fabric. All-Wool Cashmeres are less desirable for summer than the SILK WARP HENRIETTA, as they are warmer and make heavier dresses.

HENRIETTA CLOTH is a somewhat more dressy fabric and since its introduction in such admirable qualities, is, with the possible exception of camels' hair, the favorite material for these uses mentioned.

In light colors they are among the favorite material for Tea Gowns and Neglige wear on cool days. With fronts and sashes of Surah or India Silks and Lavish Garnitures of Lace they are highly appropriate for young ladies.

For Misses' and Children's wear it is in steady demand and is made up with Embroidery, Lace, Ribbons or Velvet, for Seaside Wear, Traveling or Ordinary Afternoon Dresses. Silk Warp Henrietta is the most suitable medium weight goods. It makes exquisite evening and party dresses for spring and for cool latitudes, and if tastefully trimmed is quite dressy enough for any but the most ceremonious occasions.

There is also shown in all the latest shades the handsome and popular goods known as Drap D' Almana. Also the French Serges in all the popular shades. This fabric comes in handsome combinations of plain and with stripes to match.

No less in favor are the BENGALINES, EPINGLINES, SEBASTOPOLS, BIARRITZ CORDS, NUNS' VEILING, ALBATROSS CLOTH and the ever popular SATIN BERBER.

In Black Goods a lady would be hard to suit who could not make a selection from the handsome novelties which the celebrated firm of B. PRIESTLY & CO. placed on the market this season, embracing, as it does, such an endless variety of Standard Henriettas, Silk Warp Henriettas, Melrose Drap d' Alma, Crepe Cloth, Alys, Camels' Hair, Venetian Armure, Waterproof Serge, Maria Theresa, Railway Cords, Mohair, Tamise, Batiste, Alpaca, Brilliantine, Mohair, Sicilian, Nuns' Veiling, Australian Cashmere, Cashmere de l' Inde, Surah Twills, Merino Coupure, Chevron Stripes, Ravenna, Imperial Crepe and many other novelties.

Due notice will be given of our GRAND MILLINERY OPENING.

PORTLAND, MONDAY, MARCH 17.

STANFORD'S SCHEME.

Let us take Senator Stanford's new financial scheme seriously for a few minutes. What he proposes is that the government shall relieve the prevailing agricultural distress by loaning everybody who wants it money at a low rate of interest, taking mortgages upon the land of the country as security. The first objection to the scheme is that the government hasn't any money to loan. The government owns nothing in its own right. It is only the trustee of the people. Least of all does it own the money which it takes from the people by taxation. It is merely the authorized agent for its expenditure for certain purposes recognized as necessary. The shaving of farm mortgage notes is not one of these purposes. Bear in mind that all the money the government has is taken from the people by taxation. What right has the government to take money from one person only to loan it to another at a nominal rate of interest? This is forcing the taxpayer practically to give his money to the non-taxpayer; the man who can earn money to share it with the man who can not. In seriously making this proposition, the president of the Central Pacific railway touches elbows with Johann Most and Edward Bellamy.

But waive for a moment the injustice of the proposition, and suppose that the government may loan the money at a nominal rate to all the people of the country who need it. Where is it to get the money to loan? There is a wild, popular notion afloat that the treasury is full of unemployed money, but a senator of the United States ought to know better. The truth is, there isn't enough available money in the treasury to meet the demands which would be made upon it in the first week after the bill became a law. The money is there true enough, but it is pledged to other purposes. Of the gold, $100,000,000 are pledged to the redemption of the legal tender notes, and another large sum to that of the gold certificates. Most of the silver is pledged to the redemption of silver certificates. The actual unemployed surplus in the treasury is only a little more than $50,000,000. This would be drained out in a week. In order to meet the demands upon it for loans, with the money at its disposal, the government would be obliged either to violate its pledges to the holders of its notes and distribute the reserve held for their redemption, or to increase the burden of taxation. To do the first would destroy its credit. To do the other would raise a storm of popular protest. Neither course is practicable.

If the government is to make loans to the farmers, it must create the money for the purpose, and it is clear from the preamble of Senator Stanford's resolutions that this is the alternative he has in mind. He intends to set the government printing press to work, turning out fiat money. What he proposes to loan the people of the country upon land mortgage security is not money, but the promise of the government to pay money. The farmer will give his note to the government and the government will give its note to the farmer. This will be all very pretty, until the note of the government, the fiat money it has printed and put into circulation, falls into the hands of somebody who wants the government to redeem it. For it is hardly conceivable that the printing-press money contemplated by Senator Stanford is not to be nominally redeemable in something. And, if it is redeemable, a time will surely come, when the country has been flooded with it to meet the requirements of everybody who wants to refund his old debts or make new ones at 1½ and 2 per cent., when redemption will be demanded. This will renew the original dilemma of the government. It will have no money to redeem its notes, any more than it had real money to loan the farmer in the first place. It will be obliged, in order to secure money for redemption, either to increase taxation and so commit the unjust taking of money from one to give to another avoided by the printing press device in the first place, or to collect the notes given it by the farmers. In most cases, judging from the previous experience of governments in loan-making, this can only be done by taking the land on mortgage foreclosure. But this will not pay the holder of the government's promise to pay. He will not take land, when he holds a promise to pay money. The only escape from fiat repudiation will be, again, the levying of a tax to pay the notes. So the vicious circle ends where it began, in robbery by the government of one person to benefit another. The robbery is only delayed by the mortgage fiction and fiat money device.

It is worth while to notice another point of contact between this scheme of Senator Stanford's and the programme of the Most and Bellamy crowd. The millionaire senator builds better socialism than he knows. He would not only take the money of the earner to loan to the non-earner, but, in the futile effort to get the money back, he would put the government into possession of most of the land in the country. This is as clear as daylight, unless the government gave up their mortgage notes to the farmers without an effort to collect them. In flush times, when land was high and speculation active, owners would borrow on it all the money they could. With duller times the land would depreciate and money would become scarce; there would be default in the payment of interest, and any attempt on the part of government to collect its loans by foreclosure would place it in possession of the lands. It would in time become the owner of most of the land in the country, just as the thrifty usurer of a village gathers in one after another of the outlying farms. What the government would do with the land, heaven knows, perhaps, but we doubt if Senator Stanford does. Mr. Edward Bellamy could probably aid him with counsel in the premises, voluble if not valuable.

WASTEFUL SAVING.

About this time of every congressional session, look out, as the old almanacs say, for the cry of retrenchment. It is the regular thing. Every congress starts out to spend all the money there is in sight and something over. Then it discovers that there is a limit to the total revenue and that there is a day of judgment for congressmen, and rushes to the other extreme, beginning to cut down appropriation bills right and left. This is when really meritorious appropriations suffer. It is the time of horizontal scaling down, of wholesale reduction by percentages. All the appropriation plans, good, bad and indifferent, necessary and wholesome or superfluous and extravagant, which the sanguine spirit of the first days of the session engendered are brought together and impartially scaled down alike. The mouth of the Columbia suffers equally with Podunk harbor, and the Missouri and Mississippi rivers are scaled down by the same percentage as Cheesequake creek. Lasting mischief is done in this way. Economy and retrenchment is all very well, but the way to retrench is to avoid petty local and needless improvements in the first place, and concentrate what money can be spared on works of large, permanent, national value. If the total appropriation contemplated is too large, the reduction should be selective not horizontal, relative to merit, not indiscriminate. The Columbia river should not suffer because Podunk harbor has asked for too much money. The committee plan seems to be to set down the sums asked for all improvements regardless of merit, compare the total with the total amount of money to be expended, and then give each its due proportion of the amount asked. The true way to fit expenditures to resources is to throw out the petty items bodily till sufficient reduction has been made, letting stand intact the appropriations recommended by the department for works of large national importance. Probably this is impracticable under the log-rolling system, which makes it necessary to buy every congressman's vote with an appropriation for his district; but it is a most unfortunate thing for the country that appropriations for public improvements cannot be made upon a broader basis and from a higher point of view. It is this foolish policy of diffusing money among hundreds of separate works, some mediocre and some petty, instead of concentrating it upon the few that are really large, national and necessary, that causes the tedious and wasteful delay in the prosecution of works of the latter character. Engineers' estimates for great national works like the Columbia river jetties are cut down because the demand for money to dig out mud puddles or scrape rocky arroyos somewhere in a backwoods member's district makes the total too large. The result is to add to the total waste of the money spent in the backwoods, the loss of a considerable percentage of the money spent on the really valuable improvements, through the slow and piecemeal manner of prosecuting them. The Columbia river is suffering from this policy now, and is likely to suffer still more before this session is out, unless its friends are wide awake and pugnacious.

THE LOGIC OF FACTS.

It was Carlyle who styled political economy "the dismal science." To a poet, and Carlyle, measured by his magnificent imagination, is memorable chiefly as a man of poetic temperament, it was natural to contemptuously style the non-poetic thought of the world as belonging to the domain of "dismal science," but to the mass of mankind the questions of tariff and finance are not "dismal" at all, for on their sound solution rests the question whether the civilization of the future will be "dismal" or not. The reason why questions of tariff and finance are made "dismal" to the average reader is because of their pedantic treatment, for when discussed by men of clear, common sense, and non-pedantic minds, such questions always interest the public. Daniel Webster, Henry Clay and Silas Wright, devoted nine-tenths of their speech to the discussion of the questions of tariff and finance, and their speeches were eagerly read by the people. Webster was once reproached for voting sometimes for a high tariff, and sometimes for a low tariff, but he defended himself by saying that he considered the whole question as one of expediency. He recognized no hard and fast rule of "free trade" or protection; his purpose was to raise the revenue in the least burdensome way for the people, and to develop all great industries that it was possible to develop under the limitations of our soil, climate and labor. The stupid democrats and shallow-minded mugwump republicans, who swallow the Mills bill without flinching, and cannot comprehend why a republican, who believes in protecting wool, and iron, should wish to lift the duty from sugar, would do well to read the tariff speeches of Webster and Clay.

The intelligent republican to-day believes in protecting American products whose existence is so universal that through protection they can be lifted to their feet and made self-supporting contributors to our home market. Under this view wool, iron and many other industries, once non-existent in America, have become firmly established, but sugar is an industry that we cannot afford to tax the people $50,000,000 annually to protect, because its production is confined to a little corner of the country, and by many years of expensive scientific experiment we have found out not only the production of cane sugar does not increase through protection in the limited sugar district of Louisiana, but that all efforts to obtain sugar from sorghum in Kansas, Minnesota and New Jersey have proved costly failures. We have spent our money, lost it and have no sugar for our pains, and never will have any more than we get out of the little cane-sugar producing corner of Louisiana. To protect sugar, therefore, by an enormous tax is as absurd as it would be for Oregon to tax itself to death for the protection of the banana, the fig, the orange, or the pomegranate.

Now let us turn from the folly of taxing the people to death to nourish an industry that cannot possibly grow under our soil, climate and present conditions of labor, to the consideration of those industries that by the logic of facts we have proved we can richly afford to protect. When Bismarck changed the "free trade" policy of Germany to that of protection he quoted the logic of facts, the example of America, and as a practical utilitarian statesman Bismarck has not his equal in the world. Bismarck argued that protection in America puts the chief burden on the foreigner, who is compelled to pay the duty or give an equivalent by reducing the price of his products, and Senator Morrill points out that, in the long run, the consumers supply their wants at less cost than would be possible without protected home competition. To illustrate, years ago moquette carpets brought $5 to $6 per yard, but under protection they are now sold at $1 50 per yard. Bessemer steel rails in 1867 brought $166 per ton, but under protection the price in 1885 was only $28 50 per ton and $27 50 in 1888. From 1867 to 1888 there were made in the United States 15,893,011 tons of steel rails, and 1,256,857 were imported. Under protection a vast new industry was created, giving employment to thousands of people, and American railroads obtain their steel rails at a far less cost than would have been possible even with free rails at foreign prices. When the American demand in 1872 exceeded the home supply the British price at once was advanced from 230 shillings per ton to 350 shillings, and again in 1880 for the same reason the British price was advanced from 170 shillings per ton to 230. Under protection we make locomotives that are for excellence and cheapness preferred to those of England in the markets of Australia, New Zealand and South America. American house-furnishing and saddlery, hardware, locks, joiners' tools, watches, silverware, jewelry, paper of all kinds, are often superior to and cheaper than similar articles produced abroad. Our manufactures, outside of household industries, amounted in 1880 to $5,369,579,191 and it is estimated will reach $7,000,000,000 in 1890, and yet Mr. Gladstone declares that we should surrender this home market of 95 per cent. in order to increase our 5 per cent. (not including cotton) of the export trade to Great Britain.

England places her duties on articles not produced at home, while America places her duties upon those articles that are or ought to be produced here. This free trade tariff of England in 1888 yielded $98,150,000 of revenue, or a little more than one-quarter of the sum ($378,300,000) required for the ordinary support of the British government, and to cover this enormous deficiency is compelled to impose a land and house tax, a tax on legacies and successions, a stamp tax on bills of exchange, receipts and patents; a tax on carriages, horses, manservants, guns and dogs; an excise on gin and all other spirits, and a tax on incomes. The public debt of the United States is $1,063,004,894, while in 1888 the debt of Great Britain, with about half our population, was $3,527,875,265. In face of this logic of facts, in face of the tremendous fact that the industrial and economic conditions are so completely reversed in England and America that if free trade is good for England it can not logically be good for America, it is difficult to understand how an intelligent thinker in the United States can welcome "free trade" until our industrial and economic condition becomes identical with that of Great Britain; that is when we shall become densely populated, "land poor," a manufacturing people who cannot raise their own food supply.

FRANCE.

The announcement of a new cabinet at Paris on Saturday does not mean any change of party policy or power. The new ministry, like that of Tirard, which it succeeds, is republican and is headed by Freycinet; one of the very ablest and most sagacious of the conservatives of his party. The present political situation in France gives assurance that the republic is gaining strength. President Carnot has won and continues to hold the confidence and esteem of men of all parties. He has permanently disposed of Boulanger, who a little more than a year ago was so popular that he held brilliant public receptions at his hotel, and on the 27th of January, 1889, was elected deputy of Paris by nearly 250,000 votes. Carnot and his cabinet, by their vigorous action, drove Boulanger into inglorious exile, and he is to-day a convict that dares not present himself for trial. A little more than a year ago Boulanger was a popular sovereign, a would-be dictator, and to-day he is a hopeless obscurity, living in a little hotel in the English isle of Jersey with none so poor as to do him reverence. The new chamber of deputies, elected in September, 1889, convened with a decided republican majority, and the old coalition, which under the name of Boulangism, included royalists, Bonapartists, and a number of radical republicans, is broken and dissolved beyond any hope of reconstruction. Many of its members have joined the national party of conservative republicans, because the September elections convinced them that it was impossible to restore monarchical rule in France without civil war, and the property owning classes in France of all shades of opinion will accept the republic before they will risk internecine conflict.

The spectacle of the great Paris exposition, during the past year, has done much to increase the self-confidence of France in the power of her labor and the extent of her domestic resources, and has convinced the most skeptical of foreign observers that France has been grossly misrepresented as exhausted beyond hope of ever again becoming a great European power. The Russian government is manifestly so friendly that any attempt on the part of the triple alliance between Germany, Austria and Italy to humiliate France would be answered by diplomatic protest, and probably armed interference. In separating from Germany and Austria five years ago, by refusing to join with them in what was called the league of the three emperors, Russia made the first step in friendly neutrality toward the French republic. The triple alliance was formed against France upon the pretext that France was a permanent danger to European tranquillity, but the peaceful, non-aggressive foreign policy of France has dissipated that delusion. Italy and Austria are disaffected to each other; because Italy openly avows her desire to regain the possession of Trieste. Austria, too, grows uneasy at the declaration in Berlin that the Austrian provinces of German origin will never have their proper place until they become part of the German empire. As a member of the alliance, Italy's military budget becomes very burdensome, and her anti-French policy has forced a war in tariffs that has been ruinous to the Italian market and its export trade. Italy is getting to be a malcontent member of the alliance; and Austria is disaffected, because each one of her allies avows projects that menace the territorial integrity of her empire.

Nor is Germany relatively as strong to crush France as she was in 1870. Emperor William Second is not as popular and sagacious a ruler as his grandfather, and Bismarck's chronic physical infirmities make it certain that the grave may open to receive him at any moment. At 74 he is not so likely to reach 80 as Gladstone is to see 85, and Bismarck's death will not increase the young emperor's power to maintain his grandfather's place as the arbiter of Europe and the dictator of the fate of France. France has splendidly reorganized her military and naval strength; her political institutions are more solidly established than in 1870; she has regained her self-confidence, won the interested support of Russia and the sympathies of a very large and influential English public opinion.

The San Francisco Alta of Sunday says:

> The Portland OREGONIAN jumps stiff-legged at the suggestion of free wool, but it raves against taxed sugar. In this tariff banquet there must be pie for all or for none. Oregon wants wool pie and California wants sugar.

It isn't a question of what a few wool growers in Oregon or a few gardeners in California want, but of what is for the interest of the whole country. The wool growing interest is considerable. The sugar interest is insignificant. Nine-tenths of the sugar used in this country is imported. Not one-tenth of the raw wool used here is imported. The sugar tax is a revenue tax. It is not protective, because there is nothing worth considering to protect. The wool tax shields an important and extensive industry. Both bear hard on the consumers; but the wool tariff is paid for the benefit of a universally diffused class of home producers who are not to be distinguished from the consuming class. The sugar duty is paid into the treasury for the benefit of nobody but a few Louisiana planters. This makes the difference. The sugar tax is indefensible, even on the general theory of protection. The wool tariff is as defensible as any other tariff, and we don't want to see it removed while others are retained.

The new cruiser Newark, built by the Cramps at their Philadelphia ship yard, will be launched next Wednesday, instead of on St. Patrick's day, as was at first contemplated. This vessel and the Philadelphia are the only ships built by this firm for the government that have not yet been accepted, but it is probable that before these are out of the yard the Cramps will have entered into the contest for at least one of the two large ships, 8100 and 5300 tons, for which the department has advertised. The creation of the navy is going on as rapidly as is desirable, considering the fact that no necessity for active naval service exists. The country had enough slop work in navy building during and immediately subsequent to the war to satisfy those who favor hurried construction. It was the best that could be done in the dire stress in which the government found itself at that time, and the old monitors served a good, if a temporary purpose; but we want serviceable ships this time, and we are getting them as fast as good workmanship and somewhat cautious appropriations will permit.

There are 30,000 colored Union soldiers in Mississippi and Louisiana, and for ten years they have been trying to get into the Grand Army, but without success. Captain Gray, district commander, has recently, however, permitted the organization of a negro post, and there are now nine in the Department of the Gulf, with 819 members, while the whites have but seven posts and 325 members. The organization of these negro posts has the full approval of General Alger, grand commander of the G. A. R. The result is a split in the order, and the election of two sets of department officers. The white posts insist that if Colonel Gray's action is sustained, the result will be the disorganization and destruction of all the white posts in the South, as the negro posts will be in a large majority, and the whites can not consent to be controlled by them.

Senator Dolph and his investigating committee, after several weeks of painstaking endeavor, are just where they were at the beginning of the inquiry into the manner in which the secrets of the executive sessions of the senate leak out. There is a leak; they are certain of that—were certain of it in the beginning. Newspaper men being catechised smile and admit this fact; indeed, there has never been any reason to doubt it, but they show no disposition to indicate the location of the trouble, and the baffled investigators find themselves unable to "report progress." There are some things, as everybody knows, that it is better, even if seeing, to ignore, and this matter of the seepage of senatorial "secrets" is clearly one of these.

President Thurston, of the national league of republican clubs in an address before that body at its recent convention at Nashville, drew a picture of a democratic congressman that was as striking for its alliteration as for its correctness. Said he: "He is always present for buncombe, but not for business; for salary, but not for service; for talk, but not for tariff; for wrangling, but not for work, for cussedness, but not for count; for party service, but not for public good." Nothing like this has been heard since the day of the celebrated Theophilus Thistle, or of the industrious young woodsman who "sawed six slim sleek slender saplings for sale."

The democrats have gone far to ensure the admission of Idaho and Wyoming this session by making a party issue against the bills making them states. The Mormon question was perplexing in Idaho, and there are grave doubts of Wyoming's physical fitness for statehood. Had the question been discussed and voted on without drawing party lines there might have been delay, if not defeat for one or the other measure. As it is, they are both likely to go through under the partisan impulse. So far as Idaho is concerned, there will be no reason to regret her admission to statehood. She is fully fit for it and can take care of her own Mormons.

Dr. Philipson, the ethnologist, finds the negro in the Peloponnesus. His veins contain a considerable admixture of Greek blood, and in speech and customs he is a thorough Greek. He is a relic of the ancient Turkish occupancy of Greece. The negro, like the Chinaman, seems to thrive in all climates, while the Indian or the South Sea islander perishes when he leaves his own climate.

PERSONS WORTH KNOWING ABOUT.

President Carnot, of France, considers Americans the most interesting foreigners who visit Paris.

The empress of Germany has inherited seventeen rows of pearls from the late ex-Empress Augusta.

Edward Bellamy does not like to have his followers called Bellamites. It sounds too much like Bedlamites.

Among the younger poets who have been authors of happy work is Clinton Scollard, professor of English literature at Hamilton college. He is reported seriously ill at Thomasville, Ga.

Charles Emory Smith, of Philadelphia, sails for his Russian post Wednesday, April 2. Meanwhile he will be banqueted by the Clover Club March 20, and by the Philadelphia newspaper men Monday, March 31.

George Augustus Sala, who was recently married, did not wish the papers to announce the name of his wife, as "it couldn't be of any possible interest," and his cards bear the line: "The leading literary name of Europe."

Mrs. Caroline Donovan, who has given $100,000 to Johns Hopkins university and made many other important public bequests, was such an admirer of General R. E. Lee that at the time of his death she was just on the point of giving him $100,000.

Italian editors have tried hard to translate the words Buffalo Bill. One of them makes it: "Campagnia Americana di Guglielmo Bufalo Occidentale Selvaggio" (the troupe of "William Buffalo Savage West"). Another paper says: "Suo capo e Guglielmo il bufalo" ("its chief is William the buffalo").

SPIRIT OF THE NORTHWEST PRESS.

THE MORE THE BETTER.

Hillsboro Independent: Now is the time to make a move if our citizens intend doing anything in the matter of a fruit cannery. Salem and Woodburn each have one in operation; Albany is going to have one this spring and Eugene is agitating the subject with every prospect of success. The old schoolhouse would make a capital building for the purpose. Come to the front and let some of our business men organize and see what can be done in the matter.

BORN IN YAMHILL COUNTY.

McMinnville Reporter: "The Hon. G. W. McBride for secretary of state, who was born and brought up right here in Yamhill county!" All right. For secretary of state the Hon. G. W. it is. If Mr. McBride had the sound sense and wise foresight to be born in the banner county of Oregon, and has only had a pull of one term at the office he is in, it is the proper thing to see that he gets there. There seems to be no question about it for that matter.

SEATTLE'S SEWERAGE SYSTEM.

Sunday Star: At a meeting of the city council a plan was proposed which involved an expensive tunnel, and the discharge of the sewage from a large area through this tunnel into Lake Union. The statement is a most surprising one, and it is to be hoped that the reports as published concerning this matter are without foundation. The idea of turning that beautiful sheet of water into a filthy, disease-breeding slough is astounding.

A BILL FOR BUNCOMBE.

Yamhill Reporter: Senator Mitchell on Tuesday introduced a resolution providing for the election of senators by the people. The measure would carry by an immense majority if submitted to the popular vote, but the senate is believed to be a conservative body, especially in a matter that would send many of its members direct to the people for retention of their seats. Senator Mitchell is a friend of the people.

A SENSIBLE SENTIMENT.

Seattle Press: Can you conceive of Seattle being prosperous and at the time the other towns in this state not prosperous? Seattle does not live within herself. Seattle's progress is due to the general and healthy prosperity of the entire state of Washington. That which helps any section of the state helps Seattle. The commercial supremacy of this town was never lost, and is now more secure than ever before.

YAQUINA BAY FISHING INDUSTRY.

Yaquina Republican: There are three good salmon canneries on Yaquina bay, and the pack stands well in the market. The deep sea fishing company will soon commence operations, and with its cold storage facilities will supply a demand that is practically unlimited. Yaquina bay will become the center for deep sea fishing without doubt.

LIFE IS INDEED UNCERTAIN.

Walla Walla Journal: The little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Milt. Bryant was no sooner born than it died again, but such is life. It's so very uncertain.

TIME TO GO HOME.

Olympia Legislators Are at Last Getting Tired, Too.

TIDE LANDS BILL LIKELY TO PASS

Opposition of Eastern Washington Senators—Thompson's Bill Regarding Disposal of the Ten-Acre University Tract.

OLYMPIA, March 16.—[Special Telegram.]—There are many who think the legislature cannot adjourn on the 28th and still do justice to the business now pending. Senator Wooding is one of them. The adjournment men want to get away and as they are in the majority it is a safe wager that the session will end on the date fixed in the concurrent resolution. Many men are here at a big financial loss. Five months here is enough to ruin any man's business. There are lawyers staying here for $5 a day whose business aggregates thousands of dollars in the course of a year, and stockmen and farmers whose business has received little or no attention from them for months.

If the session adjourns on the 28th a great many minor bills will be killed. No disposition is shown to take them up. The members think that when the important legislation has been enacted it will be time to go home. The tide lands bill has passed the house and is pending in the senate, likewise the assessment and taxation bill, and the school land bill and the bill prescribing the compensation of county officers will probably go to the senate next week. The principal senate bill pending in the house is for the incorporation of small towns. It will probably be disposed of next week. With these questions out of the way the hour of final dissolution cannot come any too soon. The knotty apportionment question has not been settled yet. Indeed it has not been taken up. The house appointed a committee to attend to the matter, but the senate has taken no action.

The vote in the senate on the tide lands bill will be very close but the friends of the bill claim it will pass. It does not suit everybody, but the session is so near an end that many are willing to overlook their individual ideas and whims and vote for this bill, rather than have no legislation at all. There are fifteen solid votes for the bill, and several are wavering. It requires eighteen to pass the bill. When it made its appearance in the house there were only twenty-eight votes for it. The Eastern Washington senators are being strongly urged by their constituents to oppose the measure, and they will fight it to the bitter end.

First, last and all the time Clark of Spokane has acquired considerable fame for his support of the tide lands bill. The Eastern Washington papers, which have an exaggerated idea of the value of the tide lands, believing as Speaker Feighan does, that if they were properly sold it would not be necessary to levy a state tax for one hundred years, have been hauling him over the coals for being identified with what they call a gigantic conspiracy to deprive the state of its tide lands, while the Western Washington people think he did the proper thing.

Clark was a member of the special tide lands committee appointed just before the holidays, which reported two bills, one by Moultray and the other by Clark. Clark's bill was the more perfect of the two, recognizing the equities of both the upland owner and the improver, and the bill passed by the house was essentially his bill, upon which it was founded.

Clark pays no attention to the criticisms heaped upon him by the Eastern Washington press. "I have been consistent in my course on the tide lands question and don't care what anybody says," he said yesterday. "I placed myself in the position of the upland owner and improver, and I decided how to act."

The Spokane papers have no just ground for complaint against Clark. He is small but well able to take care of himself and is recognized as the ablest of the Spokane delegation on the floor.

Senator L. F. Thompson yesterday received a dispatch from Judge Struve stating that all the papers in the university land case would reach Olympia on Monday evening. This will in all likelihood delay the introduction of Senator Thompson's bill to dispose of the ten-acre tract in which the university is now situated until Tuesday. Senator Thompson has worked very faithfully to settle the question of the ownership of the university site, and the passage of the bill which he proposes introducing would be a feather in the aged senator's cap. It is believed the bill will go through with a hurrah in the senate, but may possibly run afoul of snags in the house. Senator Thompson's bill asserts state ownership of the site. Many maintain that the title is vested in the city of Seattle.

The governor, state treasurer and state auditor will to-morrow open bids for the purchase of bonds authorized to fund the debt of the territory assumed by the state. F. A. E. Starr the Portland lawyer will make a bid for a syndicate.

Commenting upon the defeat of the Louisiana lottery job in the North Dakota legislature recently an Eastern paper remarked that the scheme would doubtless be revived in some of the far West legislatures, probably in Montana or Washington. The Eastern papers need have no fear of Washington. Nothing short of the repeal of this provision of the constitution will give the Louisiana swindlers a foothold in Washington:

Article 2, Section 24—The legislature shall never authorize any lottery.

There is no imminent danger of the repeal of this provision. H. E. R.

WALLA WALLA NEWS.

Suits to Settle Large Estates—Fortunes of a Runaway Couple.

WALLA WALLA, March 17.—[Special Telegram.]—Suit has been brought in the probate court against Orley Hull, a prominent farmer, by his two daughters, to compel a settlement of their mother's estate and the accounting of community property, which, it is alleged amounts to $25,000, and for the appointment of A. Swash as administrator of the decedent's estate. Proceedings have also been instituted by Jacob Isaac Beraker for settlement of the large estate of Joseph Beraker, who died a year ago. This suit was made necessary by the death of R. F. Walker, executor, who died suddenly recently near Waitsburg.

On Saturday there arrived in this city from Eastern Oregon a young runaway couple not yet beyond their teens. The husband confessed to the hotel proprietor that they had nothing beyond a bundle of blankets and a satchel of clothes. Breakfast was given them and the young fellow soon found a home with a prominent farmer, who loaded them on his wagon and they went out of town the happiest pair on earth. When they drove away from the hotel the crowd thereabouts, who had heard their story, gave a hearty cheer because of their pluck and luck.

Republican Reform in New Mexico.

SANTA FE, N. M., March 16.—[Special Telegram.]—The New Mexican produces figures from the territorial auditor's office showing that the entire cost of carrying on the territorial government for the fiscal year ending March 4 was less than the cost of maintaining the courts of New Mexico under the democratic administration the previous year. The total court expenses of the territory for the year were $80,000. Under the democratic administration of three years and eight months the court expenses amounted to the enormous sum of $622,300, or at the rate of $11,872 a month. In the history of the territory the largest expenses of courts under any republican administration was in 1884, when for a year they amounted to $32,292. To a vigilant bar association, backed by the republican party of the territory, belongs the credit of bringing about this reform.

The Penalty of Politeness.

New York Tribune.

Ex-Governor and Representative McCreary of Kentucky is noted for his politeness. On one occasion he was the guest of a friend in the country. When he sat down to supper the lady of the house asked him whether he wished coffee or tea. The governor replied:

"Coffee, if you please, madam."

His fondness for hot coffee is known to his friends, who can well imagine his feelings when the hostess informed him that the cook had neglected to warm the coffee for supper, and that it was cold. Even this information of the cook's neglect did not affect the governor's politeness, and with a smile he replied:

"How fortunate, madam. Do you know, madam, that I am so eccentric as to prefer cold coffee and do not care for it in any other way? Your cook's neglect is good news to me."

The relief of the housekeeper can be understood as she handed Governor McCreary the coffee, which he sipped with well-feigned pleasure.

The weather the next day was cold and bracing. It was just such a day as to make the heart of a coffee-drinker long for his favorite drink. Governor McCreary had forgotten the incident of the night before when he sat down to breakfast. But if it had escaped his memory it had not that of his hostess.

"I have the coffee cold for you this morning, governor," she said sweetly. "You see I remember that you said you never liked it in any other way."

The smile on Governor McCreary's face was hardly as angelic as it was the night before, but he drank the cold coffee without a murmur. It was with difficulty, however, that the other guests restrained their laughter over the unfortunate predicament in which the governor had placed himself by his politeness.

Stepniak, the Nihilist.

Philadelphia Times.

Stepniak, the Russian nihilist, who is spending some years of exile in London, is not as prosperous as he might be, although he has recently been paid a big sum for his new work on Nihilism. He is one of the most industrious workers in London. He is always writing or studying. He spends hour after hour in the British museum, accompanied usually by his charming wife. They ransack through the big books, make piles of notes, and then the great socialist goes home and to work. He is possessed of a wonderful constitution, for frequently, after spending an entire day in the museum, he dines very frugally, then goes into his little study and remains there until daybreak. But somehow with all his hard work, he does not seem to make as much headway as he should. He is occasionally seen at the clubs and at the theater, but he does not make a practice of going much into society. He writes English with ease, but in speaking often seems lost for the right word. He has a small army of friends who stick to him loyally, and in their society and that of his books he seems happy. He is perhaps the best informed man in England on the Russian question. He has been asked to come to America and take the lecture platform, but I doubt whether he would be a success here. He could hardly tell us anything new, and his use of English is not such that our public would be pleased with. He seems to recognize this fact, and goes on plodding, studying and writing, hoping that the sun may break through the black clouds that obscure him, and that he may wake up some morning and find that the Russian dynasty is a thing of the past.

AT THE THEATERS.

Several First-Class Performances for Theater Goers to Choose From.

Augustin Daly's company will open [illegible] the New Park theater in "A Night Off." There will be a crowded house is a foregone conclusion, as the well-known mirth-provoking character of the play and the ability of the company to please the public is already conceded. The first three nights of the week will be devoted to "A Night Off" and the other four nights to "An Arabian Night."

SOL SMITH RUSSELL.

The sale of seats for the engagement of this company is already large enough to insure a successful engagement. The company will open Wednesday at the Marquam Grand in the celebrated comedy-drama of "A Poor Relation." The play will be produced with the same cast, scenery and stage settings used at Daly's theater, New York city.

Speaking of the play the Chicago Times says: "The stage settings were absolutely faultless, the scenery in the first and last acts being beautiful as well as correct. The company could scarcely be better. Miss Grace Filkins, bubbling over with good humor, made a bewitching Daisy, and Merri Osburn's Scallops was a clever bit of acting. The children, Master Richards and little Hazel Chappell—bless their dear little hearts—captivated the audience at the very first. The last named, though scarcely 5 years of age, acted in a manner as graceful and natural as that of more mature years. Other members of the company are deserving of special notice. At the end of the first act last night Mr. Russell was called before the curtain by a spontaneous outburst of applause, and delivered one of his characteristic speeches, brimful of wit and humor. The Grand was crowded with a fashionable audience."

JOHN BOYLE O'REILLY.

To-morrow night this famous Irish poet and patriot will lecture at the Marquam Grand. Although he is still a comparatively young man his life has overflowed with incidents and scenes that are not often crowded into the existence of a human being. He is an Irishman of the class that Charles Lever has immortalized, and the simple story of his life would be as interesting a story as he could tell.

CORDRAY'S THEATER-MUSEE.

Several new attractions have been added to the Musee performance, after which the regular dramatic company will appear in "The Banker's [illegible]." This is McKee Rankin's great play, and has always been a favorite in this city. The drama is full of thrilling situations and incidents and the management have prepared new scenery for the occasion.

At the performance last night of "[illegible]" the sign of "standing room only" was displayed.

THE STANDARD THEATER.

Mr. E. G. Gould, of New York city, has assumed the business management of this house, and a great bill is on this week. Captain A. H. Bogardus, the celebrated rifle shot, and his three sons give an exhibition of their skill. Lottie Beaumont and James M. Brophy, emotional actors in conjunction with the Chicago Comedy Company, will appear in "The Planter's Wife." The Dellingtons, Prince Wells, John W. [illegible] and other specialty performers help to make up a good bill for pleasure seekers.

REOPENING OF THE ROYAL.

After having been closed for a week, the Royal theater will open to-night under the management of John Letcher, formerly of the Standard. The interior has all been newly refitted and repaired, and the theater now presents a neat and tasty appearance. The house has been repainted and the ceiling elaborately frescoed, and the boxes all newly furnished. Opera chairs will soon be put in, and the theater will be made one of the most attractive on the coast. To-night an excellent company will appear. Among the principal artists are the Decomas in their wonderful Egyptian suspension act, Pautzer and Dupont, the human corkscrews, Mademoiselle Alie with her den of performing serpents, and Walter Keene, the Australian comique. It is the intention of the management to give a sparring exhibition one evening each week with the best talent obtainable.

BEHIND THE SCENES.

A Very Pleasant Chat With "Fanchon" and Her Husband.

Miss Mitchell, who is Mrs. Charles Abbott in private life, is a pleasant woman in conversation. Her manner is open yet dignified, and she is thoroughly permeated with good common sense. Just after "Ray" had made her final bow THE OREGONIAN's representative made his way to the dressing room of the actress and was welcomed with a cordial greeting. Miss Mitchell said:

"We have every reason to be grateful for our reception at the hands of the Portland public. What splendid and substantial growth your city shows! I am amazed at Western progress and enterprise.

"Do I receive many plays? More, indeed, than I can read. Some of them are utterly worthless, others meritorious, but unsuited to my particular line of work; some well written and others laborious beyond expression to wade through. But I must say that I have noted improvement in many directions, and I think I may honestly say that the future American dramatist is sure to come to the front. I prefer to accept the work of native authors, and think those who submit plays to me will admit that they receive all possible encouragement. I have recently refused several thoroughly good one-part plays because the modern American tendency is to demand symmetrical productions rather than such as are calculated to show off only the capacity of the individual artist."

Mr. Charles Abbott, Miss Mitchell's leading man, is a splendid specimen of manhood, and more than usually genial and pleasant. He said:

"I am always glad to meet the journalist. I have heard actors say that they cared not for the criticism that appeared in the daily newspapers. My experience is that he who thus boasts loudest is the first to sneak off in the corner and read the dramatic editor's comments, and he smiles with self-complacency when his work is favorably reviewed, and is more than ill-humored when he is found or unfavorable opinions are expressed.

"What effect does applause have on the actor? To those of us who are actors because we love our profession it is the life and soul of our artistic existence. Applause stimulates us to the production of the best that is in us, and lifts us out of the narrowness of self. The audience that is cold does not know what it misses. When we feel that our best work is not appreciated we grow listless and discouraged and the work cannot but suffer in our hands. I am frequently asked in the East by members of the profession as well as others what sort of audiences greet us in the wild and untamed West. When I reply that we meet with almost as rigid criticism here as back East they express considerable astonishment. They seem to forget that the West is being built up by strong vigorous men, many of whom are educated highly and who are creating a civilization [illegible] than that of the East, because freed from many evils that are bound up with older communities."

EAST SIDE NEWS NOTES.

Common Council Meeting—Does Not Conflict—Church Services—Not a Candidate.

There will be a regular meeting of the council this evening.

The funeral sermon of the late Rev. John W. Sellwood, delivered by Right Rev. B. Wistar Morris in St. David's church yesterday, was a masterly address and a fitting tribute to the deceased.

Conductor Harvey wants it understood that he is not a candidate for city marshal of East Portland; that when he was chosen school director of Woodlawn he reached the pinnacle of his ambition, and he does not propose to tumble off that pinnacle to accept the marshalship.

It is claimed by those who have examined the ordinance relating to the fire engineer, pending before the council, that it does not conflict with the charter, and that it does not abrogate the power of the fire delegates to recommend the appointment of an engineer. The general provisions of the ordinance are good, but many are under the impression it takes away the from the fire delegates the exclusive power of appointing the engineer. However, a gentleman who looked it up carefully, states it does not interfere with the power of the board.

Yesterday the meetings at the Asbury street M. E. church were very interesting. The attendance at the morning service was large, and Rev. [illegible] preached an effective discourse. At the close of the service about sixty were admitted into the church by letter and on probation, a large portion of the increase being young people. At 3 P. M. a rousing jubilee service was held in the lecture room, which was crowded. The services consisted of songs and testimonies. Within fifteen minutes 142 spoke. Last night a stirring meeting was held. The revival will continue through the week every night at 7:30 P. M. and 3 P. M., and this evening. At 6:30 every evening a [illegible] service will be conducted by Mr. Chandler, which will continue until the regular service begins. The meetings of the week promise to be more successful than those before held.

A Bill to Establish the Australian System in Choosing Congressmen.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—Representative Lodge announced his federal election bill in the house yesterday. The bill is a combination of the Australian system with federal control of elections. DETECTIVES CLOSING ON BURCHELL.

A Farmer Saw Him Near Where Benwell's Body Was Found.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., March 16.—Detective Murray yesterday brought to the jail Charles Buck, a farmer residing half a mile from the scene of the Benwell murder. The day on which the murder is supposed to have been committed, Buck, while driving home from town, met a man on the road near where the body was found. Burchell was brought out of his cell and confronted by Buck. As soon as the latter saw the prisoner, although his clothes were different, he recognized him as the stranger who accosted him on the road. He said afterwards that the coat which Burchell wore when he saw him was a black coat of a bluish color. Detective Murray has such a coat in his possession. Burchell had nothing to say.

Detective Murray brought four more witnesses to the jail to identify Burchell. They were Miss Alice Smith, Miss Swayzie, Mr. Cromwell and J. H. Jones. They all positively identified Burchell as the man they had seen at Eastwood on the afternoon of the 17th of February, before he took the train to Hamilton.

THE BLIND SEE.

A Miraculous and Speedy Cure of Catarrh which had Extended to the Eye and Threatened Blindness and Death.

J. D. CORBETT MADE A NEW MAN.

A Terrible Sufferer from that Prevalent Disease Instantly Relieved when Death Seemed Almost Inevitable, by Dr. Aborn, the Successful Eye, Ear, Catarrh, Throat & Lung Physician.

HE WRITES HIS OWN TESTIMONIAL

And Swears to It Before W. W. Roberts, Deputy United States Marshal, as Acting Notary.

CITY OF PORTLAND,
COUNTY OF MULTNOMAH. } ss.

Personally appeared before me this 8th day of March, 1890, J. D. Corbett, who being duly sworn, deposes and says:

I CHEERFULLY, WITH A GRATEFUL HEART, state the facts concerning my case and my almost magic relief under the skillful treatment of Dr. Aborn, Fourth and Morrison streets, Portland which are as follows:

I have been PAINFULLY AND SERIOUSLY AFFLICTED with NASAL CATARRH, and have paid out to doctors over a thousand dollars during the past year without permanent relief. But instead of relief I FOUND MYSELF IN ALMOST A DYING CONDITION one week ago. The disease spread to my left eye, which was so inflamed that it was closed tight, so that it was impossible to see that I had an eye in my head, and the pain was so great and intense that I had not slept for five nights, nor had I been able to eat a mouthful of anything for a week. I was put on the train at Kamela, Oregon, some 287 miles east of Portland, for the purpose of visiting Dr. Aborn at Portland, and I did not really seem to care whether I lived another day or not, my suffering was so great and intense.

I arrived in Portland last Saturday, March 1, and came direct from the train to the office of Dr. ABORN at noon. The doctor took my case in hand, and IN FIVE HOURS' TIME, TO MY GREAT SURPRISE AND RELIEF, BY HIS SKILLFUL TREATMENT, I COULD OPEN MY EYE, AND I WENT TO BED THAT NIGHT AND SLEPT FOR THE FIRST TIME IN A WEEK, and the PAINS and INFLAMMATION ALL SUBSIDED SO RAPIDLY THAT IN 48 HOURS I FELT and LOOKED LIKE A NEW MAN, and have IMPROVED SO RAPIDLY IN A WEEK'S TIME THAT ONE WHO SAW ME LAST SATURDAY WHO WOULD SEE ME TO-DAY WOULD SCARCELY BELIEVE THAT I AM THE SAME MAN. I now eat and sleep as was my custom before being ill."

I have not language to express my praise for the gratitude I feel toward Dr. Aborn for the speedy relief he has given me, which was almost instantaneous.

Hotelkeeper and Stockraiser,

GOSSIP ABOUT THE "CASUS BELLUM"

Yesterday Morning's Shooting Scrape in a North Portland Saloon.

COLOMA WILL BE HERE IN JUNE

Still Another Glove Contest Arranged—The Balloon Ascension—Poetical Son of Vulcan—Portland as a Smelting Point.

PORTLAND March 16—[TO THE EDITOR]—On behalf of myself and Messrs. Brown and Stott, in answer to the communication signed by Messrs. Bleck, Witherell and Carson which appeared in Saturday's OREGONIAN I will say that we do not consider it good policy to hold the sessions of our committee in public. Such a course is contrary to all precedent, if not common sense. Two members of the committee are now absent from the state on business, and will not return for several days

It also appears to me that Messrs. Bleick Witherell and Carson are assuming considerable more authority than ordinary delicacy would warrant first, they seek to name all the judges second they appoint the time and place for holding our committee meeting and invite the public to be present. Generally common courtesy and certainly custom grants the authority to the chairman of the committee to call it together, and in order that all these things may be considered by the committee a call will be issued in THE OREGONIAN elsewhere in this edition for such a meeting

And in answer to the communication of Mr Simon I will say that I never have betrayed a position of trust in the party A man as a private citizen may do as he pleases, but when a trust is placed in his hands by his party to execute he is a traitor if he is false to it or betrays it. I am told that Mr Simon has already given notice that in case certain republicans are candidates for state offices that he will not only oppose them in the convention but in case they are nominated he will beat them if possible at the polls, as he did Judge Waldo in 1886. Now I ask the republicans to consider this matter carefully I will state now and here that I am not that kind of a republican and I will not use my influence to defeat anyone placed on the ticket but on the other hand will use every effort in my power to secure the election of whoever is nominated by the next state and county conventions I am pledged to no candidate for any office My only desire in this matter is to secure as our standard bearers and candidates republicans of unquestioned fidelity to our party and to see that the primaries and convention are honestly conducted. JAMES LOTAN,
Chairman Republican County Committee

Speaking of the disagreement in the republican county central committee, a gentleman who claims to be something of a politician himself said yesterday

"It is merely a phase of the trouble between the two republican bosses, Joseph Simon and James Lotan Mr Lotan got hold of most of the wires, and he wanted to get control of the police department, as well as the fire department, both of which are factors in running things in this city Mr Simon did not want Mr Lotan to have everything and so entrenched himself in the control of the police department, and he and Lotan have been at outs ever since. Simon is willing Lotan should have control of all the county offices if Mr Lotan will let him control all the state offices from this county Mr Lotan does not want to do this as he fears Mr Simon will work against him and legislate him out of office, and will also oppose the man he wants to see United States senator"

It is claimed that as the central committee stands three to three neither faction will be able to accomplish anything and Mr Lotan as chairman will have to appoint all the officials usually elected by the committee. This, it is claimed, is why the Simon faction came out with their pronunciamento the object of which is to create public sentiment against the other faction Another view is taken by the Simon faction who claim that Lotan chairman of the committee has no vote according to parliamentary rules unless there is a tie and, as there is three to two without the chairman there can be no tie and the Simon faction will do all the electing The only thing that can interfere with this scheme is that the Lotan faction may not be sticklers for parliamentary rules.

HE WAS TOO READY WITH A PISTOL

Thomas Benning, First Mate of the Ship Iredale, Shot in the Shoulder by John Sweeney

In a shooting fracas in a saloon on the corner of Second and E streets, at an early hour yesterday morning, Thomas Bonning, first mate of the ship Iredale, was shot through the right shoulder John Sweeney, his assailant fled, and the police are unable to find him.

The shooting occurred at about half past 8 o clock in the morning. The men were drinking and talking, and Sweeney was beginning to be very boisterous and abusive. While Bonning was talking with another man he stepped up to him and called him a ——— Bonning turned around and advancing toward Sweeney said "You had better not call me that" Scarcely had he spoken the words when Sweeney drew his revolver and fired.

Bonning was taken to the city jail, where Dr Rand dressed the wound. The ball was imbedded in the shoulder blade and had taken such a course that it was impossible to extract it by probing. The wound was then bandaged with antiseptics, and it is thought that the bullet will cause Bonning but little inconvenience. Judging from the size of the bullet hole, the revolver must have been either a 38 or a 42 calibre Bonning was removed to Good Samaritan hospital later in the day Sweeney took leg bail as soon as he fired the shot and nothing has been seen or heard of him since

THE WHITMORE STABLES

Coloma Entered at San Francisco and Sacramento—Laura D to Foal—Two New Trotters

Mr W L Whitmore the well known horse breeder was at the Holton yesterday

Mr Whitmore has entered Coloma for the blood horse meeting at San Francisco April 12, and the Sacramento spring meeting which opens April 26 Coloma is wintering at Sacramento, and is doing well. He is five years old this spring

The Whitmores have two two-year Caliph colts at Mayview Caliph is a full brother to Margaret, mother of Regal Wilkes, the fastest two year old in the world Lady Mag is also at Mayview She is a full sister to Leona, and is now four years old She and the two Caliph colts will probably be worked this season She will be entered in the 30 40 and 50 classes All are trotters, and the colts will soon be sent away either to City View or Walla Walla, to be worked

Laura D is bred to Coloma and will not be worked She will foal now in about ten days Pat Curran who won the Oregon derby at Salem last fall, is now four years old and Mr Whitmore has not decided whether he will work him this year or not though he may run them through this country

Mr Whitmore goes to the ranch in a day or two where his brother Fred still lives and then will return to his home at San Francisco

SENT A KEG OF HORSE SHOES

A Pious Blacksmith Who, Like Silas Wegg, "Turns Into Poetry"

Blacksmiths as a general rule are not given to learning and piety but a learned blacksmith is on record and now it is the happy lot of Oregon to have a pious one He sent an order to a hardware firm here for some iron and, by mistake a keg of horse shoes was sent along with it and not put in the bill The blacksmith notified the firm of this fact in a poem of some length containing a synopsis of the whole duty of man and many trite remarks and concluding with the following stanzas being the seventh and eighth

"A keg of horse shoes, marked D H I
With my last iron though no bill, you sent to me
You remember, I called attention to your book
You gave search, sent me copy but found no crook.

"So you see this mistake is not known
To anyone save God and myself alone.
You may be an infidel a deist or a Jew
But God forbid that I should keep that which belongs to you

CONLEY AND GLOVER IN TRAINING.

As their Glove Contest Arranged and Several More Soon Will Be

Mike Conley and Frank Glover are hard at work training for their match for Saturday night Both men are confident to win and a hard fight is expected Among the betting men there appears to be but little choice as all bets yet made are on even terms. Conley has secured the services of Con Riordon, as trainer and is doing most of his work in the pavilion and among the surrounding foothills. He is a great walker and often tramps 12 to 15 miles in one stretch.

Frank Glover has placed himself under the care of Paddy Gorman and has taken up his training quarters at the White house

Articles of agreement have been signed by Pete Shay and Billy O Donnel, both clever light weights for a match to come off in the Mechanics pavilion, two weeks from Saturday night The men are to spar ten rounds or more if a winner is not declared before that time and the contest is to be governed by Marquis of Queensbury rules Shay will fight at 115 pounds and O Donnell at 1?3 The match is for a $300 purse and the winner to take all

Jack Letcher is authority for the statement that arrangements for a match between Paddy Gorman and Tom Warde will in all probability be consummated to-day The contest will be under his management, and in some building other than the Mechanics pavilion Letcher will soon arrange for some more matches as he is always ready to do anything to promote legitimate sports

There is also some talk of sending for George Kesler the Montana middle-weight, to arrange a match between him and Paddy Gorman Kesler is at Butte City but would no doubt be ready to meet Gorman especially as he has considerable advantage in weight and reach.

The Mechanics pavilion is still in the swim and there appears to be no cessation of hostilities between the contending factions.

AN UNMISTAKABLE SIGN OF SPRING

A Balloon Ascension Again Attracts Thousands of Spectators as of Yore

There is something fascinating about a balloon ascension that few people can resist or withstand At least such could be the inference from the large crowd of people who congregated on a vacant square near the east approach of the Jefferson street ferry yesterday afternoon The well known aeronaut Professor Redmond was to make a balloon ascension and that accounted for the presence of the 5000 or more people They had come to see the feat of daring as it involved the elements of danger and chance

It was after 3 o clock when the work of inflating the large air ship was begun and it lacked fifteen minutes of 4 when the ascent was made The balloon is a new one nearly sixty feet long and forty feet in diameter and had only been used in one ascension last fall.

Half an hour before the balloon was liberated it was announced that inasmuch as the exhibition was free a collection would be taken up for the benefit of the professor but as it was found impracticable to take along the parachute no collection was taken Professor Redmond did not feel like taking any money unless he could give all that he had announced The canvas was damp and the arrangements for inflation were somewhat incomplete owing to the fact that the day was cloudy and several times it threatened to rain As the balloon itself was wet the professor did not dare to take on the additional weight of the parachute

When everything was in readiness the ropes were cut and the immense air ship went up Professor Redmond clung to the trapeze bar and after attaining an altitude of several hundred feet, performed some of the most difficult feats known to trapeze evolutions The balloon went about 2000 feet and then began to descend first slowly and more rapidly as it neared the earth It landed safely about five blocks from where the ascension was made

Professor Redmond will go up again next Sunday and make the parachute jump, providing the weather is favorable

THE LINNTON SMELTER

What an Expert Thinks of the Site and the Prospects for Business

Mr J T Gove of Helena, Mont. is in the city He is a mining expert and has been connected with mining and smelting for the past twenty five years He paid a visit to the smelting works being erected at Linnton and was very favorably impressed with the situation and the prospects for business. He says the site is first class and he sees no reason why smelting should not be done here as cheaply as anywhere in the world If the lead can be disposed of This could be provided for by the erection of shot works lead pipe works and white lead works The greater part of the shot made in this country is used west of the Mississippi and in the new towns springing up on the Pacific coast a great deal of lead pipe and white lead is used. China uses a large amount of lead The entire product of the Salt Lake smelters used to go there, besides considerable from other smelters. With a line of steamers direct between this port and China, Portland should be able to supply the China trade, as it has advantages over all other ports There is a great deal of lead used in China for packing tea.

Fire brick and coke can be procured here from England very cheaply Wood which enters largely into smelting and refining, is very cheap here With a smelting works in successful operation here other enterprises connected with it should spring up sufficient to give employment to a thousand men.

"The smelting business" said Mr Gove, "is not like many other kinds of business You have either ore or bullion on hand and either is just the same as money Every ton of ore put in the yards is good security and when the bullion is extracted it can be drawn against at the bank."

FIRST PICNIC OF THE SEASON

A Very Pleasant Affair Yesterday Out at Woodlawn—Slight Shower

There was a picnic out at Woodlawn yesterday the first of the season It was not a very fine day, but pretty good for picnic weather The Woodlawn tract is not the ideal spot for a picnic either at present as the trees have all been cleared away and the ground leveled and the grass has not grown yet and the wild flowers are not blooming very extensively. There is, however a splendid view of Vancouver and the Columbia from the tract and the party put in the time tracing out the different streets and avenues and counting the houses built and in course of erection There are a dozen very neat houses built by the company and eight or ten by purchasers of lots and preparations are in progress for as many more and the lumber is on the ground for a store not far from the station

A slight shower coming on, the party repaired to the large coach house of the company and while eating were regaled with the patter of the rain on the roof and walls of corrugated iron When through they inspected the concrete foundations for the huge elevated tank for the water works and the power house where the boiler and engines are for pumping the water The pump is soon to arrive, and one inquisitive fellow who insisted on looking down the well came near falling in As it is five feet in diameter and 160 feet in depth, he would have gone down deeper than McGinty The party passed a very pleasant afternoon—for a picnic party—but will try and have a bright day and some shady nook for their next picnic

A BADLY MIXED UP TRANSACTION

C M Meeker and R L Roper Held to Answer on a Charge of Larceny of $50

C M Meeker and R L Roper are now in the hands of the grand jury which body will further investigate the charges of larceny preferred against them by Anna and Nellie Harper Roper had a hearing before Justice Wood several days ago and Meeker was up before his honor Saturday and both are held to await the action of the grand jury under bonds in the sum of $200 each The two Harper sisters engaged the agents as a means of self protection they having bought a piece of property from one party through another belonging to a third and then learned that none of them had anything to do with it. The transaction is a peculiar one and complicated and it would require quite a long story to give all the details

Roper acting for Meeker sold the young women a lot in Columbia addition in Astoria said to belong to one Ida Sismore Meeker had a contract to sell the property from C J Hall & Co who are his agents The women paid Roper $40 and agreed to pay $40 more as the first payment for which they were given a bond from Ida Sismore and signed by Meeker Roper deducted his commission [illegible] $50 on the $80, and turned the $30 over to Meeker. He then went to San Francisco and during his absence the Harpers paid Meeker the $30 When the Harpers went to make the next payment both Roper and Meeker were away and they went to the office of C J Hall & Co That firm refused to take the money as they had received no notice that the lots were sold Becoming suspicious that everything was not all right the girls telegraphed to the register of deeds at Astoria asking who owned the property they had bought and were told C J Hall & Co

They then came to the conclusion that they were being swindled and at once swore out warrants for the arrest of Roper and Meeker Roper was confronted with the charge immediately upon his return from San Francisco, and Meeker had a warrant served upon him when he came back from Anacortes

It appears that Ida Sismore to whom a bond for the lots was issued never made any payments and consequently possesses no title The property was sold to her by Meeker while she roomed at his house but she has gone to Salem Oregon and never took any further interest in it Roper claims to be an innocent party to the transaction as he acted in good faith He believed Ida Sismore to be the owner of the lots and thought that Meeker had a right to sell them in her name Meeker says that it is a misunderstanding although he is blamed both by Roper and C J Hall & Co

Mr Thomas O Day member of the firm of C J Hall & Co speaking of the transaction last evening, said

"Meeker had a contract to sell the property and sold the same lots to two parties The lots he sold to the Harpers he had already sold to Ida Sismore on November 10 Miss Sismore was to pay $10 a month on the lots but she never made a payment and consequently the bond lapsed She never paid a cent to us or to any one authorized to receive money for us, as far as we know

"About the last of January Meeker came to us asking whether Miss Sismore could pay up at that time It seems that he had already received some commission Notwithstanding the fact that the bond had already lapsed we told him that we could accommodate her on condition that she would pay right up She never came to make any payments and that was the last I heard of the matter until a week ago when the Harpers came to our office wanting to make a payment They claimed they had bought the property from Ida Sismore through Meeker and Roper We told them that the bond had been issued to Miss Sismore and that we could accept no money We asked them to let us see the bond They came again but without the bond and wanted their money back. We have none of their money and consequently could return none We knew nothing at all of the affair They had paid out $80 and we never received a cent Roper, no doubt was acting innocently

Mr O Day intimated very strongly that Meeker is responsible for the trouble and Roper says the same thing

Roper however has a still more serious charge to face in Justice Biles's court this afternoon During his examination before Justice Wood he produced a note for $10 which he said was given him by Annie and Nellie Harper before his departure for San Francisco He claimed that they gave it to him as a guarantee that they would pay the sum to Meeker The girls claim that they never signed the note and forgery is the charge now staring Roper in the face

ELECTRIC ROAD

Work Rapidly Progressing on This Line in Anacortes—Other Improvements.

ANACORTES March 14—[Special Correspondence]—Among the arrivals today are F W Casey passenger agent of the Chicago Milwaukee & St Paul railway G B Morrison A H Pratt, C F Gillmore G B Smith and J D Smith also W C Campbell attorney of Tacoma

A very large proportion of the buildings which have hitherto been erected are now being painted and ornamented which greatly adds to the appearance of the city

The postoffice is beginning to loom up and when completed will be another ornament to Anacortes. The present building used for a post office is entirely inadequate to meet present requirements. The postmaster and his force of employes are now giving general satisfaction

The electric road and telegraph line are both progressing and the completion of the same will be hailed with delight by the entire community

Several important investments have been made in the McNaught Land Company's tract and a considerable number of buildings are going up in all directions on this valuable property

The organization of the several secret societies appears to be moving along satisfactorily

The wrestling match between the champion "Jap" and the unknown last night at the Club theater ended in a complete victory as usual for the Jap and the wonder is that any man can be found to compete with him Considerable money was up, as it was supposed that the Jap would at last meet a Tartar

A regatta is spoken of in the near future but every one seems to be too much pre occupied in building and real estate deals to devote much time and attention to this kind of sport at present. T G E S.

Scene—First Dinner to the Family Physician by Young Married Couple.

FAMILY PHYSICIAN—Do you know, there seems to be a natural flavor about this food that is most appetizing? What method do you use in cooking it?

LADY OF THE HOUSE—Well, Doctor when I was at home, my mother would have no other than a Charter Oak Stove. From my earliest recollection I have heard how she would praise it, and her cooking was superb So when we were married I insisted on having the same kind of stove Of course the improvements made on it since mother's was bought have made it more wonderful Ours has all the latest, including the Wire Gauze Oven Door. I don't understand the process exactly but they tell me that all meats cooked in ovens with these doors, retain their juices and flavors to a much greater degree than by any other means. Can you explain the theory, Charles?

CHARLES (the Husband)—I can't remember all that was told me but I know the Doctor can give a most clear and scientific statement of the reasons [illegible] Doctor

DOCTOR—Well, it is hardly professional to ask [illegible] from a doctor; in fact, I am inclined to think he would not be helping his practice much by saying anything in favor of the Charter Oak Stoves. But as I have one in my kitchen and know something about it, I think I can enlighten you Of course it would take quite a long time to explain everything to you scientifically, and we have not time for that Count Rumford an American, who was Knighted in Europe for his scientific attainments, pointed out nearly a hundred years ago, that baking and roasting meats in airtight ovens was wrong and he proved it by actual experiments. He asserted that it was as essential to health that our food should be cooked in pure, fresh air as that we should breathe pure, fresh air, and that air tight ovens render the air impure, and the food cooked therein became tainted and unhealthy But how to properly ventilate the oven was not discovered for many years after Count Rumford's time The difficulty was to allow fresh air to enter the oven uniformly without cooling it perceptibly and this has been accomplished by Mr Filley's invention of the Wire Gauze Oven Door The air enters the oven through the wire gauze in the form of very fine jets, and as there is a large surface of gauze the air is diffused and heated without forming air currents to cool the oven Cooking might be called a chemical decomposition with the aid of heat, but oxygen is as necessary as the heat, and this is furnished by the air Again, the meat roasted in a tight oven loses a large part of its most nutritious juices, which become dried out. Ventilating the oven prevents this waste and the meat is cooked perfectly in the same way as broiling over a charcoal fire or roasting in the old fashioned spit of our grandfather's time Fresh air, or the oxygen furnished by the air, also improves the baking of bread making it much lighter and more easily digested. Bread baked in a Charter Oak Stove with Wire Gauze Oven Doors will never mould, and that is very strong proof that the bread is pure and healthy

CHARLES—Thank you, doctor I think we understand the reason much better now
